

Career Development Gathering 2024

Many of the doctoral students are so busy with daily research activities and there are few doctoral students around them including lab mate. They tend to miss the opportunities to interact with other doctoral students in other fields and struggle with the lack of information on career development such as job hunting.

This event will provide opportunities for doctoral students to acquire basic knowledge on job hunting and to interact and exchange information with other doctoral students. You can also join career counseling with the expert specialized in doctoral career.

In addition, companies that are actively recruiting doctoral students will participate as special guests.

It is a valuable opportunity to hear firsthand information on specific examples how doctoral students joined the companies and the actual expectations from the companies.
